It is also a favorite in the United States and Cauada, the importations into which are greatly increasing this year, sixty head having been shipped from England in April, to be followed as the year advances by many others, as American agents continue there, busy in selecting continue there, busy in selecting from the choicest herds.

The first known to be imported into the United States were by Mr. G. F. Taber, of l'utnam county, New York, December, 1873. He informed me that he was induced to do this by the perusal of a series of articles I wrote on polled cattle, published in the Country Gentleman, commencing March 28, 1872.

The Red Polls are among the most satisfactory and proutable.

most satisfactory and proutable PIMPLES, blackhen s, res, rough, chapped and oily skin-prevented by race that the general farmer can rear. The heifers breed at two years old, and the steers are as well matured at two as the Shorthorns at three to four years old. The cows, especially from Norfolk, yield an extra quantity of rich milk, and continue the flow until a short time before calving. Some few it is difficult to dry before this. In his new discovery for Consumption succeeded in producing a medicine which is acknowledged by all to be simply mervelous. The pain from this it is contended is trifling, the RE40 FURNITURE STORE intense hot iron numbing the button of the horn to insensibility. At any rate it is not more painful than castrating or spaying, and no more objection should be made to It. But the wisest and most humane method, after all, is the use of polled bulls to horned cows, as the ofispring of these is generally hornless. Breeders ought to multiply these males rapidly, and do their best to induce the farmers to mychase them. This sort of grade my(7.1) purchase them. This sort of grade stock can be grown up so much safer and cheaper than horned, that they would increase the profit of so doing in the United States to millions of money annually.

I have been the earnest advocate of Polled caitle in the agricultural papers of our country for upwards of forty years past and am most heartily rejoiced now to see them becoming so popular among us. 1 hope the day is not far distant when horned cattle will be unknown in America.

The country will bless California long after it has forgotten the doubty deeds of the California delegation at St. Louis. The oil product of that State is to be used to break the power of the Standard Oil Company, which is by all acknowledged to be the most grinding of all the trusts, combinations and monopolies which burden the suffering people of this land. Eastern capital is going to be put into the oil fields, together the country will bless California long after it has forgotten the doubty deeds judged. An exchange says: The English journals express themselves highly gratified with the renomination of President Cleveland. The American market, worth vastly more than all the markets that are now open to the English manufacturer, is looked upon somewhat as the wolf looks upon the well protected sheep pen. In the fierce competition of European nations the Indicted for murder in Storey loss of old markets and the invasion county, applied for release on bail of the English markets by the still under a writ of habeas corpus becheaper goods of the continent, it is no fore Judge Rising. The applicawonder that Mr. Cleveland's advocacy tion was argued by W. F. of free trade should render him a F. Deal and District Attorfavorite in other countries.

THE Evening Post of San Francisco has introduced an innovation in western journalism. It proclaimed itself yesterday as a two-cent paper. In thus doing, it says the change has not been made without due consideration, and would have been made sooner if it had not been for the absence of small coins in the city. News agents and newsboys have been provided with pennies to make the proper change. Old timers to make the proper change. Old timers who have been accustomed to paying not less than their bit or two bits for their smallest purchases, will frown on this influx of pennies, but the eastern element, that is growing so rapidly,

The two places are about fifteen miles apart. Within the past four days I have traveled over 200 miles on one of the most interesting roads in the Sierra. Yesterday there was a big snowstorn in the mountains. For the first thirty miles of to-day's trip here and there were seen old snow banks, sometimes twenty feet the charge of rottenness against any snow banks, sometimes twenty feet State or locality. NEVADA'S DEFENDER.

Mr. Woodburn Meets S. S. Cox in

Washington June 12.—Representative Woodburn of Nevada yesterday in the House replied to some remarks made by Mr. Cox against Nevada. He objected paritcularly to having his State characterized as a rotten borough. He paraded all the municipal shortcomings of New York City, which Mr. Cox represents in part, and claimed that all the corruption fund used in New York would not buy four wards in Virginia City. The greatest laterest of the House was centured in Mr. Woodburn's production of a book written by Mr. Cox in 1854, entitled "A Buckeye Abroad." Mr. Woodburn claimed that Mr. Cox had pudgayored to purphase and destroy. endeavored to purchase and destray all these books, but this particular one escaped his actice. He read quotations to show that Mr. Cox had then eulogized England in most extravagent words, and added that the Buckeys in Tam.

Mr. Cox arose and waited a moment before speaking. First of all he showed that the book Mr. Woodburn had could be easily found in the Congressional Library. "I propose to deal quiedy and gently with the gentleman from Nevada," he said amid laughter. He then charged him with suppressing the truth, and asserted suppressing the truth, and asserted that he was both ignorant and malicious. He called Woodburn a "protoplasmic nebula, something which floated in space." He denied the silly remarks about his family, and concluded his remarks amid roars of laughter.

A Murder Near Guerneville. SANTA ROSA, June 12 .- Sheriff Cogan arrived from Guerneville this morning. The circumstances surrounding a murder that occurred there Saturday morning are mysterious. Louis Riva, the murdered man, lived in a cabin near Guerneville. Saturday a woman who went to see him on business discovered that he was lying a few feet from the door dead. He had shortly returned from a hunt and had his powder-horn on when found. His rifle was found in the cabin. No other weapon was near. The builet entered his body near the hip and ranged upward. A few dollars were found in the cabin. Suspicion points to a well-known man. No arrests have yet been made. The Coroner's jury rendered a verdict that Riva was murdered by an unknown party. PLATFORM AND RESOLUTIONS The following platform and resolutions were adopted by the Republican State Convention, which convened at Winnemucca on the 15th instant; The Republicans of the State of Nevads, in Convention assembled, again express their loyalty to the principles of the Republican party, which have made this country so great and prosperous during the last quarter of a century.

RESOLVED. That the question of a sufficient upply of circulating medium to maintain a permanent range of the price of labor and property is the most important political question awaiting solution by the American people.

That a diminishing quantity of money reduces the price of labor and property, enriches the creditor, impoverishes the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

reduces the price of labor and property, enriches the creditor, impoverishes the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

That the present financial system of the United States, which increases or diminishes the circulating medium at the pleasure of the manipulators of the national banks, without regard to the increases of population or the wants of the people, and which recognizes gold alone as the standard of value, and places in the hands of the Treasure Department all the revenue of the Go-ernment to speculate with in bonds and ioan to the national banks without interest, is subsersive of the rights of the people, oppressive, unjust and should be repudiated. That a financial policy whereby both gold and silver shall form the basis of circulation, whether the money used by the people be coin, or coin certificates redeemable in coin, or both, as convenience may require, is imperatively demanded.

That the attempt to substitute national bank notes, costing the Government millions of dollars annually, for free aliver, costing nothing, is an outrage up-n the reople; that the money ring or trust, which has usurped the sovereign power of the Government to issue money, and which has fraudulently demonetized silver and seized the revenues of the Government for private speculation, shocks the moral sense of the people and destroys respect for gove nament and law. We demand that the xing or trust be destroyed, and equal rights be restored to all the people.

We charge that President Cleveland is the willing tool or agent of a powerful money ring, which fattens on the subsidies of the Government, makes war on silver, issues its paper currency at the expense of the Government, horrows the revenues raised by a xation and uses the method the payment of interest, contracts the currency to enhance the value of bonds, and enriches neurors, while it depresses the price of labor and property.

That we favor the nomination of no man for President who is personally interested in national banks or the bonded indebtedness o the rich.

That the trick of the President and his advisers by which they prevented a vote in the House of Representatives on the Beck silver amendment to the Bond Purchase bill, equals the villainy of the secret and traudulent demonetization of silver in 1873. RESOLVED. That we are in favor of the protection of home industry, and that the inborer of this country have a right to all the work required to supply the people of the United States, and that we are in favor of high wages, and to that end will protect the resource of the country to the co

THE MCKISSICK OPERA HOUSE the firm of Thos. Kane & Co. of

The citizens of Reno bave just cause for congratulation upon the completion of the finest Opera House on the Pacific Coast, inland west of the Rocky Mountains. In saying this there is no exaggeration, for the massive pile of brick and morter which stands in a commortar which stands in a commanding position on the corner of Plaza and Sierra streets, attracts the instant attention of every person passing through our town from the east or west.

Through the munificent liberallty of Jacob McKissick, Esq., and the commendable public spirit and energetic action of Mr. C. W. Booton, his able lieutenant and business manager, the M'KISSICK OPERA HOUSE Has been built, as soon after the plans were drawn, as labor and unlimited means could do it. It is an attractive addition to the public buildings of Reno, and the thanks The following is the text of the of the community are due to the owner for the liberal expenditure building in Reno, which has passed required to complete this enduring the Senate and is now pending in | monument that marks his probic spirit. Only a few months ago Mr. Mc-Kissick decided that Reno should have such a building, and he at once delegated ample authority to Mr. Booton, who proceeded immediately and obtained plans and specifications from the Newsom Bros., of No. 405 Kearny street, Sau Francisco, and on his return commenced excavating for the foundation.

ITS DIMENSIONS. The Opera House occupies two entire lots, being fifty by one huudred feet, and rising to a height of eighty feet to the apex of the truss roof that terminates its graceful outlines. Its southern front on Plaza street is sixty-five feet from the ground to the cornice, with unbroken columns from top to bottom that magnify its imposing front.

Around the building, on Plaza and Sierra streets, extends a spacious hooded awning, resting on graceful iron columns and terminduring the winter, to the satisfaction of all parties.

Should there be an apparent startity of hay elsewhere the probabilities are that the Sink of Carson will get as many cattle to feed as can be accommodated, and that those who will have hay for sale those who will have hay for sale that in case of fire the audience can strong the satisfaction of the looby and dress circle, thirty feet above the ground. This plazza is surrounded with an airy Eastlake balustrade. Twelve large exits open from the second story upon this plazza, and ladders are provided, so that in case of fire the audience can ating at the second story in a piazza on a level with the floor of the looby

On the ground floor on each side of the main entrance are two larger rooms for stores, besides one on Sierra street. In the rear is an ele-vator for delivering theatrical bag age from the transfer wagons directly to the dressing rooms, o which there are three-two for ordinary dressing and one for the

THE GRAND ENTRANCE

Is from Plaza street, and consists of a wide corridor leading through swinging doors twelve feet wide swinging doors twelve feet wide into an ample lobby on the first floor. Turning to the left the grand stairwa, leads to a roomy landing and thence mounts to the lobby opening into the dress-circle. To the right of the lobby is the box office. To the right and left other stairs lead to the balcony and gallery above. Over the office window is a handsome Freuch plate mirror. Over the box office is a cosy private office for the manager, and underneath is the band room.

THE DEDICATION

Will occur on to-morrow night, when the Irving Dramatic Club, composed of local talent exclusively, will produce Ramona, dramatized by Mr. Charles A. Norcross, and the event promises to be a decided success, as every seat in the house is already taken for the first night and many sold for the second.

These are gorgeously rich in colors of bright red cherry and gold, set in hard oil and pollahed and glowing in Oriental warmth. The boxes are richly upholstered, and decorated with lambrequies of silk and liuen in colors of old gold and bright scarlet bands, while inside hang Spanish lace curtains in ceru. They are carpeted with English moquette, rich in color and material, and soft as a bed of down. Four easy chairs in each complete the furnishings.

Each chair bears the monogram "J. McK." in the from frame below the upholstered back, and each is provided with hat-rack underneath, and also foot-rest and cape-rack. They are almost autocane-rack. They are almost automatic, being constructed to fold up when the occupants rise, and lift slightly on the seat. This leaves a wide aisle in passing in or out, and avoids the uppleasant crowding

> THE BALCONY, Above the dress circle, sweeps in a graceful horseshoe curve around the hall, joining the inclined sides of the upper boxes, and rests upon strong wooden pillars, that makes it as strong as the foundation stones of the huilding. Timid people need feel no fear, for this balcony and the gallery above and to the rear of it are not hung to the roof by slender fron rods, as is the case in some theatres. The balcony front is faced in redwood and pine in na-tural colors, as is also the wainscoting throughout the house. The balchairs, and the gailery seats 130 more, thus making the seating capacity 700 for the entire house. THE STAGE Has a height of 40 feet, while the scenery proper is 24 feet. Ample space remains under the stage for drop traps and dissolving scenery.

THE SCENERY Was all painted by Sosman & Landers of Chicago, and will be referred to after the opening night.

The house is lighted with gas and provided with all the modern appliances. The main auditorium is lighted from the center of the dome by Hickey's patent sun burner of sixty-four lights, which consumes al! the smoke of the gas as well as all impurities of the heated air of the hall. Three of Hickey's patent ventilators pierce the roof and insure pure air under all conditions.

IN CONCLUSION,

It is but justice to Mr. McKissick and Manager Booton to say that every bit of material in this elegant opera house, as far as could be, was obtained in Reuo, and all the labor was performed by home artisaus and mechanics, not one being imported from abroad, and thus this community received the benefit of nearly all of the vast sum expended in its construction. in its construction.

THE SUPERVISING ARCHITECT Was Mr. A. G. Fletcher, who employed day labor in its construc-tion whenever possible, and has completed his task to the entire satisfaction of his employer.

THE BRICK WORK Was done by Burke Bros. of Reno from the foundation to completion, and reflects credit upon them in all its massive and solid proportions.

THE PLUMBING AND ROOFING Were done by the firm of Manning & Jaques of Reno and each is as complete and perfect in all its details as any similar work ever done in the State. General Jaques, assisted by Charles Lawrence, did all this work in most excellent style, slighting not the least detail.

THE PAINTING. ably assisted by Mr. Finley Cook, the Supreme Court would liberate Harry Hale and Fred Starks, and is one of the most artistic jobs ever done in the State, and speaks in loud tones of their skill. THE CARPETS Were all laid by James Marklinger, and won special words of favor

CONGRATULATIONS Are due to the proprietor of this temple of art, Mr. Jacob McKissick, and Manager Booton for the successful completion of this great work. They both brought to their aid former experience to guide them, and as builders and man-agers of the elegant Opera House in Hamburg, Iowa, they were pre-pared to add to this all the modern improvements to make it a gem, and an enduring monument to their liberality, energy and public spirit. THE DEDICATION

In conversation with an intellione vicinity and adjacent valleys is not looking at all well; that in some localities the alfalfa was excellent. calities the alfalfa was excellent, but upon an average the first crop will only be about half a yield; that the season had been favorable to the natural grasses, and of this class of hay there would be more than a usual crop. Offers for hay in the stack of $8 per ton are being made. Should the weather turn warm and the season be favorable the recoud and third crops of alfalfa may yield well, otherwise there is a prospect for a comparative hay famine the coming winter. It is possible that prices for hay may reach a notch that cattlemen can't afford to pay. If so, the meal we will not feed the number of cattle that were fed there last winter.

The proprietor is now ready to receive proposals for lots in Powning's Addition. The map gives a good idea of the Tract, which is situated between the Central Pacific Railroad and the Truckee River, and commences on the west at a point three blocks distant from Virginia street, making it the most central and convenient of any portion of the rapidly growing town of Reno. Unlike any other part of the town, this addition faces the beautiful Truckee River, and Riverside avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide, while Riverside and Keystone avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is, it is more exempt from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect. Before buying el-ewhere, Parties will do well to look at these Lots.

"DAVID COPPERFIELD." The Originals of Some Characters in This Celebrated Story.

Dickens considered "David Copperfield" as the best of his books, and the reason for his preference may be looked for in the fact that it is to a great extent auto-biographical. The author has himself declared that many of the incidents in David's career are identical with those experienced by himself, so that, up to a certain point, he may be considered as the prototype of the hero of the story.

To a certain extent, also, Mr. Micawber was a portrait of the author's father, who, like him, was remarkable for rhetorical exuberance, a peculiarity which found frequent and always agreeable expression in many of the novelist's letters, written long before "Copperfield" was thought of thought of.

"No one," says his biographer, "could know the elder Dickens without secretly liking him the better for those flourishes of speech, which adapted themselves so readily to his gloom as well as to his cheerfulness, that it was difficult not to fancy they had helped him considerably in both, and had rendered more tolerable to him, if also more possible, the shade and sunshine of his checkered life. . . . "It delighted Dickens to remember that it was of one of his connections his father wrote a celebrated sentence: "And I must express my tendency to believe that his longevity is (to say the least of it) extremely problematical."

There also existed in the personal appearance of Micawber a resemblance to that of his prototype. A friend and neigh-bor of Mr. John Dickens describes him as "a chatty, pleasant companion, possess-ing a varied fund of anecdote, and a genuine vein of humor.

"He was a well-built man, rather stout, of very active habits, a little pompous, and very proud (as well he might be) of his talented son. He dressed well, and wore a goodly bunch of seals suspended across his waistcoat from his watch

STEEL PENS.

The Invention That Speedily Superseded "the Gray Goose Quill."
The earliest notice of steel pens that I have met with is by Wordsworth. In 1806 he and his family were occupye house at Coleorton during the a nee of Sir George and Lady Beaumont, and in the month of December the poet wrote to the latter what he calls "the longest letter I ever wrote in my life," and with reason, as it fills eighteen pages.

"My Dear Lady Beaumont: There's pen-manship for you! I shall not be able to keep it up to the end in this style, notwithstanding I have the advantage of writing with one of your steel pens, with which Miss Hutchinson has just furnished

The next mention that I have noted is by Dr. Kitchiner, in 1824, when speaking of a friend above 60, he says: "This strain of the eye, and occasion for spectacles of a high magnifying power, is particularly found in mending pens, so that he has a sufficient number of pens to prevent the necessity of mending any of them until he has finished writing."

To this there is appended a note:
"To those who find the mending of pens rather a difficult job, I recommend the occasional use of a steel pen, especially when they wish to write very small and neatly."—"The Economy of the Eyes," London, 1824, p. 55.

The steel pen seems to have been still a rarity at that time, and my own schoolboy experience tends to show that it was. From about 1824 to 1834 I do not remember the use of steel pens in school, and in the earlier years 1825 to 1830 I have a distinct recollection of our using quills.—Notes and Queries.
